RESOLUTION

Also naming Broad Street from Diamond Street to York Street "Georgie Woods Blvd."

Born in Georgia on Friday, May 11, 1927, George Woods (known to everyone as Georgie) was a top R&B jock and became a true legend in every sense of the word.

WHEREAS, Woods came to Philadelphia from New York in 1953 and began broadcasting from AM stations such as WDAS-AM and WHAT-AM.; and

WHEREAS, He was a consultant to Dick Clark, advising him which records were popular in the African-American community; and

WHEREAS, He went on to play the talents of emerging artists like the Temptations, Stevie Wonder and Michael Jackson over the radio; and

WHEREAS, In the 1960s, Woods used the airwaves to talk about the American civil rights movement; and

WHEREAS, He was often known to stop playing music for hours to talk about the efforts of African-Americans and others who were campaigning for equality, and about the work of the movement's leaders such as Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.; and

WHEREAS, In 1963, Woods chartered buses to take people down to the August 28, 1963 March on Washington, D.C. (subsequently famous for its "I Have a Dream" speech by Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.) and had asked a young Ed Bradley, currently a well-known CBS correspondent, to be a bus captain; and
