§ 10-2302. Prohibited Conduct.

(1) No person shall knowingly or with deliberate indifference permit human trafficking activity to occur on a property or in connection with the activities of a business owned by such person.

(2) For the purposes of this Chapter 10-2300, a natural person shall be considered to own a property or business if such natural person has an equity interest that exceeds one or more of the following, regardless of whether the natural person has a direct equity interest or an equity interest that is held through one or more tiers of a corporate structure, such as a parent-subsidiary structure: (a) twenty-four percent (24%) of the value of such property or business, or (b) twenty-four percent (24%) of the value of the owner of such property or business. If no natural person has an equity interest that exceeds twenty-four percent (24%) of such value, and an owner of such business or property is not a publicly traded corporation, the four natural persons who have the largest equity interest in such business or property shall be considered to own the business or property.

(3) For the purposes of this Chapter 10-2300, no person shall be considered to own a property before title has transferred to such person solely because such person has signed an agreement of sale for such property.

§ 10-2303. Presumption of Deliberate Indifference

(1) A person will be presumed to have acted with deliberate indifference under Section 10-2302 with respect to human trafficking activity at a subject property or business if such person was on notice that human trafficking activity may have occurred on one or more occasions in connection with any property or business owned by such person. The presumption shall apply even if such activity took place at different properties or with respect to different businesses owned by such person. A person is on notice for the purposes of this chapter when a person becomes aware of a written or oral complaint, a criminal investigation, a criminal proceeding, or an arrest, any of which relate to alleged human trafficking activity in connection with any property or business owned by such person.

(2) A person may rebut a presumption that such person acted with deliberate indifference under Section 10-2303(1) by a showing of clear and convincing evidence that (a) either (i) such person took reasonable measures to prevent human trafficking activity from occurring at the subject property or business, or (ii) the risk of the human trafficking activity could not have been minimized or prevented by any reasonable measures; and (b) the activity at issue took place without the knowledge of such person and without circumstances that would lead a reasonable person to question whether human trafficking activity, or any other related unlawful activity was occurring.

§ 10-2304. Penalties.
