Amending Title 14 of The Philadelphia Code, relating to "Zoning and Planning," by amending Chapter 14-1600, entitled "Miscellaneous," by amending Section 14-1610, entitled "Old City Residential Area Special District Controls," by amending permitted uses and zoning controls, under certain terms and conditions.
THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PHILADELPHIA HEREBY ORDAINS:

SECTION 1. Chapter 14-1600 of The Philadelphia Code, relating to "Miscellaneous," is hereby amended to read as follows:

TITLE 14. ZONING AND PLANNING.

CHAPTER 14-1600. MISCELLANEOUS.

§14-1610. Old City Residential Area Special District Controls.

(1) Legislative Findings. The Council finds that:

(b) Public expenditures have included appropriations for restoration of historic sites, improvement of vehicular access, street and sidewalk improvements, reconstruction of Market street from Front street to Fifth street, interstate right-of-way landscaping and sound barriers to enhance and protect Old City;

(c) Private investment within and immediately adjacent to Old City includes the restoration, adaptive reuse, and reconstruction of numerous historic structures, representing upwards of [$250,000,000] $500,000,000 of investment and creating more than 2,000 new housing units, the new construction within the Independence Mall Urban Renewal Area, the rehabilitation of historic churches and private development of City-owned piers at Penn's Landing;

(d) The large amount of public and private investment in the areas adjacent to Old City, namely, redevelopment within the Independence Mall Urban Renewal Area, Market Street East Urban Renewal Area, Vine Street [Parkway] Expressway, Interstate 95 access ramps, and Penn's Landing may pose a threat to the retention of the unique historic character, cultural significance and residential viability of Old City;

(f) Old City is a neighborhood consisting of a [fragile and unique balance of residences and compatible small scale commercial and retail development surrounded by intense industrial, institutional and highway development and as such a community, which is home to upwards of 3,500 Philadelphians and place of employment to hundreds more, it should be preserved and protected from negative influences from surrounding development activity] unique collection of 18th and 19th century structures, the great majority of which do not exceed 5 stories in height. The area is considered one of the greatest intact collections of 19th century cast iron facade buildings in the United States. The district is now and has been for over 100 years essentially fully developed, thus there are few vacant development sites. Pressure to develop these few vacant parcels with higher density projects for greater economic return will intensify. This will ultimately lead to construction of buildings of a height, bulk and density that will overshadow existing historic 3 to 5 story structures. Such higher density development may be incompatible with sensitive historic areas such as Elfreth's Alley, the Betsy Ross House and Christ Church;

(g) Higher density development may over burden local streets with additional vehicular traffic and strain utility and City provided services. Structures in excess of 5 stories may block out light and air to the predominantly lower historic buildings nearby, now occupied by predominantly by residential uses. They may also block historic views of important historic sites and groups of restored facades typical of the district. This will serve to lower the quality of life for existing homeowners and tenants and may negatively affect the property values of previously converted residential structures;

[(g)] (h) Therefore, special land use and zoning controls providing for limitation on the height of new construction or additions to existing buildings as well as on the size and location of certain specific entertainment and commercial uses, [as recommend in the 1988 “Plan for Center City” (page 160, Section 2 “Living With Diversity,” para. 3)] are required to protect the historic, residential, cultural and economic vitality of this section of the City.

(2) [Purpose of the District. This special district is established in order to preserve and encourage the revitalization of the residential portion of that section of the City known as Old City. It is recognized that this section of the City is unique as a historic and cultural nucleus supported by predominantly residential and compatible small-scale commercial activities and has developed into a vital, mixed-use district containing many various uses within blocks and many various uses within buildings. As this pattern contributes to the distinctive atmosphere of Old City, Council recognizes the need to establish special land use and zoning controls to protect the investment in, and foster the preservation and development of this section of the City in accordance with its special character.]

[(3)] District Boundaries. For the purposes of this section, the Old City Residential Area Special District regulations shall apply to all the properties within the area bounded as follows and depicted on Map “A”:

(a) On the north, the south street line of Wood street; on the east, the west street line of the Delaware Expressway; on the south, the north property line of all properties fronting on the north side of Market street; and, on the west, the east street line of Fifth street.
