

City of Philadelphia

Legislation Details (With Text)

Type:COMMUNICATIONStatus:PLACED ON FILEFile created:12/4/2014In control:CITY COUNCILOn agenda:Final action:Title:December 4, 2014TO THE PRESIDENT AND MEMBERS OF THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PHILADELPHIA:I am hereby returning unsigned Bill No. 140695, which passed Council on No 2014, and would amend the FY2015 Operating Budget to transfer $500,000 in Class Appropriations from Prisons to the Office of Housing and Community Development.Vision and creativity are central to gov=ring in a way that improves our City residents and communities. Equally central is sound budgeting. Budgets require plan forethought, and willingness to make difficult decisions. Any less, and we would fails collective obligation to be wise stewards of public resources.My Administration has been, and remains, steadfastly open to partnering with priorities through the budget, and to consider the kind of program the sponsor seeks neighborhood clean-up services to be performed by returning citizens who need jobs To do that, we must engage in the critical process of deciding where the funds shouldWhen reallocating priorities in an existing budget, it is not sufficient to pass a ordinance that funds one program, but does so by undermining the operations of a pr agency. Rather than engage in the hard work of fiscal planning, this transfer ordinance million dollars from the Prison System is relying on to maintain operations this year.Let me be clear. There is no inherent reason the program envisioned here careful decisions about what such a program sho how wit should operate, how and when to allocate resources. My door is open. My Adri	200 and the live ning, hort in our n Council to here: and experi	es of o set ience.
On agenda: Final action: Title: December 4, 2014 TO THE PRESIDENT AND MEMBERS OF THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PHILADELPHIA: TO THE PRESIDENT AND MEMBERS OF THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PHILADELPHIA: I am hereby returning unsigned Bill No. 140695, which passed Council on No 2014, and would amend the FY2015 Operating Budget to transfer $500,000 in Class Appropriations from Prisons to the Office of Housing and Community Development. Vision and creativity are central to governing in a way that improves our City residents and communities. Equally central is sound budgeting. Budgets require plan forethought, and willingness to make difficult decisions. Any less, and we would fall s collective obligation to be wise stewards of public resources. My Administration has been, and remains, steadfastly open to partnering with priorities through the budget, and to consider the kind of program the sponsor seeks neighborhood clean-up services to be performed by returning citizens who need jobs To do that, we must engage in the critical process of deciding where the funds should of that, we must engage in the hard work of fiscal planning, this transfer ordinance that funds one program, but does so by undermining the operations of a pu agency. Rather than engage in the hard work of fiscal planning, this transfer ordinance that funds one program, but does so by undermining the gap in appropriation authority that the Prison System is relying on to maintain operations this year. Let me be clear. There is no inherent reason the program envisioned here can the does, however, require informed, careful decisions about what such a program sho how it should operate, how and when to allocate resources. My door is open. My Adr	200 and the live ning, hort in our n Council to here: and experi	es of o set ience.
Title: December 4, 2014 To THE PRESIDENT AND MEMBERS OF THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PHILADELPHIA: I am hereby returning unsigned Bill No. 140695, which passed Council on No 2014, and would amend the FY2015 Operating Budget to transfer $500,000 in Class Appropriations from Prisons to the Office of Housing and Community Development. Vision and creativity are central to governing in a way that improves our City residents and communities. Equally central is sound budgeting. Budgets require plan forethought, and willingness to make difficult decisions. Any less, and we would fall s collective obligation to be wise stewards of public resources. My Administration has been, and remains, steadfastly open to partnering with priorities through the budget, and to consider the kind of program the sponsor seeks neighborhood clean-up services to be performed by returning citizens who need jobs To do that, we must engage in the critical process of deciding where the funds should When reallocating priorities in an existing budget, it is not sufficient to pass a ordinance that funds one program, but does so by undermining the operations of a pri agency. Rather than engage in the hard work of fiscal planning, this transfer ordinance million dollars from the Prison System with no plan for how to fill the gap in appropria authority that the Prison System is relying on to maintain operations this year. Let me be clear. There is no inherent reason the program envisioned here can It does, however, require informed, careful decisions about what such a program sho how it should operate, how and when to allocate resources. My door is open. My Adr	200 and the live ning, hort in our n Council to here: and experi	es of o set ience.
TO THE PRESIDENT AND MEMBERS OF THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PHILADELPHIA: I am hereby returning unsigned Bill No. 140695, which passed Council on No 2014, and would amend the FY2015 Operating Budget to transfer $500,000 in Class Appropriations from Prisons to the Office of Housing and Community Development. Vision and creativity are central to governing in a way that improves our City residents and communities. Equally central is sound budgeting. Budgets require plan forethought, and willingness to make difficult decisions. Any less, and we would fall s collective obligation to be wise stewards of public resources. My Administration has been, and remains, steadfastly open to partnering with priorities through the budget, and to consider the kind of program the sponsor seeks neighborhood clean-up services to be performed by returning citizens who need jobs To do that, we must engage in the critical process of deciding where the funds should When reallocating priorities in an existing budget, it is not sufficient to pass a ordinance that funds one program, but does so by undermining the operations of a pu agency. Rather than engage in the hard work of fiscal planning, this transfer ordinanc million dollars from the Prison system, with no plan for how to fill the gap in appropria authority that the Prison System is relying on to maintain operations this year. Let me be clear. There is no inherent reason the program envisioned here ca It does, however, require informed, careful decisions about what such a program sho how it should operate, how and when to allocate resources. My door is open. My Adr	200 and the live ning, hort in our n Council to here: and experi	es of o set ience.
COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PHILADELPHIA: I am hereby returning unsigned Bill No. 140695, which passed Council on No 2014, and would amend the FY2015 Operating Budget to transfer $500,000 in Class Appropriations from Prisons to the Office of Housing and Community Development. Vision and creativity are central to governing in a way that improves our City residents and communities. Equally central is sound budgeting. Budgets require plan forethought, and willingness to make difficult decisions. Any less, and we would fall s collective obligation to be wise stewards of public resources. My Administration has been, and remains, steadfastly open to partnering with priorities through the budget, and to consider the kind of program the sponsor seeks neighborhood clean-up services to be performed by returning citizens who need jobs To do that, we must engage in the critical process of deciding where the funds should When reallocating priorities in an existing budget, it is not sufficient to pass a ordinance that funds one program, but does so by undermining the operations of a pu agency. Rather than engage in the hard work of fiscal planning, this transfer ordinance million dollars from the Prison system, with no plan for how to fill the gap in appropria authority that the Prison System is relying on to maintain operations this year. Let me be clear. There is no inherent reason the program envisioned here ca It does, however, require informed, careful decisions about what such a program sho how it should operate, how and when to allocate resources. My door is open. My Adr	200 and the live ning, hort in our n Council to here: and experi	es of o set ience.
2014, and would amend the FY2015 Operating Budget to transfer $500,000 in Class Appropriations from Prisons to the Office of Housing and Community Development. Vision and creativity are central to governing in a way that improves our City residents and communities. Equally central is sound budgeting. Budgets require plan forethought, and willingness to make difficult decisions. Any less, and we would fall s collective obligation to be wise stewards of public resources. My Administration has been, and remains, steadfastly open to partnering with priorities through the budget, and to consider the kind of program the sponsor seeks neighborhood clean-up services to be performed by returning citizens who need jobs To do that, we must engage in the critical process of deciding where the funds should When reallocating priorities in an existing budget, it is not sufficient to pass a ordinance that funds one program, but does so by undermining the operations of a pu agency. Rather than engage in the hard work of fiscal planning, this transfer ordinance million dollars from the Prison system, with no plan for how to fill the gap in appropria authority that the Prison System is relying on to maintain operations this year. Let me be clear. There is no inherent reason the program envisioned here ca It does, however, require informed, careful decisions about what such a program sho how it should operate, how and when to allocate resources. My door is open. My Adr	200 and the live ning, hort in our n Council to here: and experi	es of o set ience.
residents and communities. Equally central is sound budgeting. Budgets require plan forethought, and willingness to make difficult decisions. Any less, and we would fall s collective obligation to be wise stewards of public resources. My Administration has been, and remains, steadfastly open to partnering with priorities through the budget, and to consider the kind of program the sponsor seeks neighborhood clean-up services to be performed by returning citizens who need jobs To do that, we must engage in the critical process of deciding where the funds should When reallocating priorities in an existing budget, it is not sufficient to pass a ordinance that funds one program, but does so by undermining the operations of a pu agency. Rather than engage in the hard work of fiscal planning, this transfer ordinanc million dollars from the Prison system, with no plan for how to fill the gap in appropria authority that the Prison System is relying on to maintain operations this year. Let me be clear. There is no inherent reason the program envisioned here ca It does, however, require informed, careful decisions about what such a program sho how it should operate, how and when to allocate resources. My door is open. My Adr	ning, hort in our n Council to here: and experi	o set ience.
priorities through the budget, and to consider the kind of program the sponsor seeks neighborhood clean-up services to be performed by returning citizens who need jobs To do that, we must engage in the critical process of deciding where the funds should When reallocating priorities in an existing budget, it is not sufficient to pass a ordinance that funds one program, but does so by undermining the operations of a pu agency. Rather than engage in the hard work of fiscal planning, this transfer ordinance million dollars from the Prison system, with no plan for how to fill the gap in appropria authority that the Prison System is relying on to maintain operations this year. Let me be clear. There is no inherent reason the program envisioned here ca It does, however, require informed, careful decisions about what such a program sho how it should operate, how and when to allocate resources. My door is open. My Adr	here: and experi	ience.
ordinance that funds one program, but does so by undermining the operations of a pu agency. Rather than engage in the hard work of fiscal planning, this transfer ordinance million dollars from the Prison system, with no plan for how to fill the gap in appropria authority that the Prison System is relying on to maintain operations this year. Let me be clear. There is no inherent reason the program envisioned here can It does, however, require informed, careful decisions about what such a program sho how it should operate, how and when to allocate resources. My door is open. My Adr
It does, however, require informed, careful decisions about what such a program sho how it should operate, how and when to allocate resources. My door is open. My Adr	ublic safety e takes ha	lf a would be happy to discuss a realistic plan for funding and implementing this program FY16 budget process.	uld accompoint accompoint accomponent accomponent accomponent accomponent accomponent accomponent accomponent a	plish, and I
Respectfully MICHAEL A. NUTTER
Sponsors:
Indexes:
Code sections:
Attachments:
Date Ver. Action By Action	Result	Tally
12/4/2014 0 CITY COUNCIL READ

December 4, 2014

TO THE PRESIDENT AND MEMBERS OF THE

COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PHILADELPHIA:

I am hereby returning unsigned Bill No. 140695, which passed Council on November 20, 2014, and would amend the FY2015 Operating Budget to transfer $500,000 in Class 200 Appropriations from Prisons to the Office of Housing and Community Development.

Vision and creativity are central to governing in a way that improves our City and the lives of residents and communities. Equally central is sound budgeting. Budgets require planning, forethought, and willingness to make difficult decisions. Any less, and we would fall short in our collective obligation to be wise stewards of public resources.

My Administration has been, and remains, steadfastly open to partnering with Council to set priorities through the budget, and to consider the kind of program the sponsor seeks here: neighborhood clean-up services to be performed by returning citizens who need jobs and experience. To do that, we must engage in the critical process of deciding where the funds should come from.

When reallocating priorities in an existing budget, it is not sufficient to pass a transfer ordinance that funds one program, but does so by undermining the operations of a public safety agency. Rather than engage in the hard work of fiscal planning, this transfer ordinance takes half a million dollars from the Prison system, with no plan for how to fill the gap in appropriations-spending authority that the Prison System is relying on to maintain operations this year.

Let me be clear. There is no inherent reason the program envisioned here cannot be realized. It does, however, require informed, careful decisions about what such a program should accomplish, how it should operate, how and when to allocate resources. My door is open. My Administration and I would be happy to discuss a realistic plan for funding and implementing this program as part of the FY16 budget process.

Respectfully MICHAEL A. NUTTER