Signifying the intention of the City of Philadelphia to organize the Philadelphia Public Banking Authority pursuant to authority established under state law, under certain terms and conditions.

WHEREAS, a public bank can help to achieve multiple policy objectives that include facilitating municipal infrastructure development for our City government, supporting a local financial ecosystem that assures equitable access to credit from our community banks, and stimulating economic development that spurs job creation and expands the tax base of our local businesses; and

WHEREAS, a public bank can help support the investment of City revenues for local benefit in ways that are consistent with the City's values and policy goals; and

WHEREAS, a public bank can help identify, develop, and implement best practices for local financial institutions and their clients to eliminate de facto redlining, to promote meaningful citizen involvement in private decision making that affects public welfare, to assist cooperative business startups and conversions, and to facilitate achievement of additional public policy goals within the private sector; and

WHEREAS, Philadelphia has a history with banking innovation, starting with the establishment of financial institutions here before and during the founding of the American Revolution and the formation of the United States under the visionary leadership of Benjamin Franklin, Robert Morris, and Alexander Hamilton; and

WHEREAS, successful public banks currently operate throughout the world and in the United States, notably The Bank of North Dakota since 1919 and the Territorial Bank of American Samoa since 2016; and

WHEREAS, a public bank can provide financial tools and resources, including those available to members of the Federal Reserve System, that are in productive use by private banking institutions but are not currently available to the City directly; and

WHEREAS, a public bank can enhance the financial resiliency, stability, and capacity of the City in preparation for, response to and recovery from crises such as the COVID-19 pandemic, civil unrest, and climate disruption; and

WHEREAS, Philadelphia experiences a persistent small-business lending gap that inhibits the ability of local entrepreneurs and their business ventures from realizing their full potential - in particular within Black and Latinx communities that have historically been denied fair and equal access to credit, thereby having been prevented from building intergenerational capital resources - and a public bank can address such inequities; and

WHEREAS, a public bank can partner, rather than compete, with community banks to extend reliable, affordable credit to small businesses and other community stakeholders; and

WHEREAS, a public bank can enhance the efficiency and efficacy of financial institutions in

Philadelphia through such measures as investing in Community Development Financial Institutions (CDFIs) and organizing a collaborative venture under the Bank Service Company Act (12 USC §1861-1867); and

WHEREAS, a public bank can develop and implement programs to provide funding for purposes of improving education, affordable housing, commercial corridors, and quality of life for citizens citywide and focused in specific neighborhoods with particular needs, and can do so without necessarily incurring the expenses associated with operating branch locations; and

WHEREAS, net revenue derived from operations of the public bank can be retained as reserves or used for civic purposes; and

WHEREAS, creation of a public bank offers an opportunity for our engaged citizens, financial institutions, the Administration, City Council, and civic organizations to work together in imagining and promoting programs and policies that can assure credit availability for Philadelphia and its underserved neighborhoods and residents; and

WHEREAS, Act No. 102 of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, approved August 23, 1967, authorizes municipalities to create economic development financing authorities; and

WHEREAS, an authority under the laws of Pennsylvania possesses all of the powers needed to form and operate a public bank; and

WHEREAS, The City intends to organize an authority under Act 102 to operate a public bank in a manner that is transparent, accountable, democratically representative, professionally managed, efficiently operated, and sufficiently funded to serve the needs and interests of the people and government of the City of Philadelphia; therefore
